Database searching
Search Tips

• Truncation * e.g. manag* will find manage, managed management, managing manages etc.
• Phrase searching “” e.g. “older adults”

OR for alternative terms (synonyms) e.g. elderly OR “older adults” -> increases the number of results

AND to connect words with different meanings, e.g. diabetes AND manag* -> decreases the number of results

How Harvard Referencing Works

There are two stages to referencing sources using the Harvard system.

Firstly, you need to cite the source in the body of your work, at the point where you’re referring to it. This is called the in-text citation. This is very brief and normally just includes the author(s) and publication date.

Secondly, you need to add a full reference to the source at the end of your work. This part is called the reference list and is arranged in alphabetical order, normally by author.

When you have completed your referencing you should find that the in-text citations...
Referencing: Recording sources

• We use the LSBU Harvard Referencing Style

• Keep a record of the sources you have used

• You’ll regret it later if you don’t!

• Remember to note the date accessed (websites can change)

Example

...Developing skills in a team is a crucial component of an individual’s ongoing and continuous career development (Hearn and Thomson, 1987).

Melius (2013) observes that nursing is practiced with diverse ethnic groups and a large number of individuals served by social service and mental health agencies are people of colour. There are “five techniques or tools for practitioners that are most helpful, if not essential, for community practice” (Lippard and Bjorklund, 2004, p.102). Melius (2013) points out that social and environmental factors are critical in addressing childhood overweight and obesity. Lippard and Bjorklund (2004) go on to state that techniques are specific, repeatable, demonstrable, and measurable, “and repeatable in teams specifically” (Hearn and Thomson, 1987, p.85) ...
Reference List

Secondary referencing

If you want to cite a work which is referenced in another work, you should try and track down the original. However, if this isn’t possible, make it clear in your text where you found the information and only include a reference to the document you’ve read.

Example: Dunn (1988), as cited by Campbell and Muncer (1998), believed …

Or

Your reference list will include the full details of the Campbell and Muncer work, but no mention of Dunn’s.
